NATIONAL ARMY (ÓGLAIGH NA HÉIREANN) FATALITIES 1922 - 1923

*“Here is a list of illustrious men whose work has not been forgotten.
In their descendants they have a rich inheritance.”*

Ecclesiastes 44:10-11a

O Lord, may we honour them by speaking their names, for the past never really passes but lives with us. It accompanies us in our life’s journey. May we have the courage to break the silence and the bonds of fear that keeps us in chains. May we face the recollections of yesteryear knowing that as we remember backwards we are empowered to remember forwards and dispel the hauntings of past memories. May we dare to reimagine any enduring divided memories by the application of truth, tolerance, togetherness and transformation. May their names, their stories inspire us to build together a shared future for all.

Fr Paschal Hanrahan
Head Chaplain to the Forces

❧ NATIONAL ARMY (ÓGLAIGH NA HÉIREANN) FATALITIES 1922 – 1923 ❧

The following pages contain the details of the men that served in the National Army (Óglaigh na hÉireann) during the Civil War (1922-1923) and who died as a consequence of that service. These pages record the details of their deaths but do not encapsulate the complete stories of their lives - lives lost in securing the democratic state that we live in today. Their memories live on in the hearts and minds of their descendants and it is our honour to memorialise their sacrifice in this roll.

Captain John Stafford, SDR/3055

This work could not have been compiled without the direct and indirect contributions of the following people:

Mr. James Langton, author, historian and researcher, and his work titled “The Forgotten Fallen: National Army soldiers who died during the Irish Civil War”, published September 2019.

Captain John P. Stafford, Officer in Charge, Interments, Adjutant General’s Branch, May 1922 to May 1926, Portobello Barracks. Captain Stafford was in charge of notifying relatives of deaths and casualties, recording deaths officially, and keeping meticulous records connected to those tasks. Captain Stafford also assisted relatives in accessing welfare and grants towards funeral costs. Stafford’s work can be seen in the service records that survived (the roll shows a service number and in turn that links to a service record), and he received many letters of thanks from relatives for the way he carried out his duties. His meticulous record keeping assisted us in validating information connected to many deaths.

The staff of the Enlisted Personnel Section (later Management Office) continued to record deaths in service throughout the late 1920s to 1980s period and the register produced by that section provided us with a solid foundation for our work.

The descendants of the men detailed in the roll that have shared their stories with us, and important facts pertaining to their relative’s military service and death.

The roll in its current format marks a commencement rather than a completion of a National Army Roll, 1922 to 1923. There are cases which we could not complete our findings on and it is the intention of Military Archives to continue to investigate such cases and to update the roll accordingly to accurately reflect the confirmed death toll. This work will be further developed over the coming months, to include the web publication of the roll and significant records connected to the men detailed in the foregoing pages.
